OHIOana LIBRARY

Welcome to the 10th anniversary Ohioana Book Festival! We are delighted that you could join us for this fun-filled celebration of reading, writing, books, and Ohio authors. This year's anniversary festival promises to be the biggest, best, and most exciting ever. There's something for every reader of every age: panel discussions on everything from publishing to poetry; a book fair where you can meet your favorite Ohio author; a fun space for kids with story times, balloon twisting, costumed book characters, and crafts. And new this year: a teen space with authors and activities just for young adults. Thanks to the sponsors, contributors, partners, and volunteers for their generous support. Thanks to the 120 amazing Ohio authors (a record number!) sharing their talents here today. Most of all, thank you for coming. The amazing growth the Ohioana Book Festival has had during the past decade would not have been possible without YOU. Thank you—and enjoy the day!

This year’s stellar lineup includes winners of the National Book Award, the Hugo Award, the Peterson Poetry Prize, the Robert F. Kennedy Book Award, and the Ohio Governor’s Award for the Arts. Read more about the 2016 featured authors below.

Jill Bialosky

Jill Bialosky is the author of three previous poetry collections: The End of Desire, Subterranean, and Intruder. Her poems have appeared in journals such as the Paris Review, the Kenyon Review, the New Yorker, and the Atlantic Monthly. She is also the author of several novels and the memoir History of a Suicide: My Sister’s Unfinished Life. Bialosky is an editor at W.W. Norton and lives in New York City. Douglas Brinkley

Douglas Brinkley is a professor of history at Rice University, a contributing editor at Vanity Fair, and CNN’s official historian. His most recent books are Cronkite, The Quiet World, and The Wilderness Warrior. Six of his books have been selected as New York Times Notable Books of the Year. Brinkley lives in Texas with his wife and three children. (Photo by Danny Turner)

David Catrow

David Catrow has created more than seventy illustrated books and has worked extensively in film and television concept/design. His award-winning editorial cartoons have been syndicated in more than 1,000 newspapers in the U.S. and Canada. He works in his studio in the Eastern time zone of the United States where he is supervised by his three dogs, Beetle, Blu, and Stubbie.

Mark Dawidziak

Mark Dawidziak is the television critic at Cleveland’s Plain Dealer and the author of many books about Mark Twain and about television. In addition to being a recognized Twain scholar, he has portrayed Mark Twain on stage for thirty-six years. Dawidziak has worked as a television, film, and theater critic for more than thirty-seven years and as an adjunct professor at Kent State University since 2009.

Amanda Flower

Amanda Flower, a three-time Agatha Award-nominated mystery author for children and adults, started her writing career in elementary school when she had her sixth-grade class in stitches with her description of being stuck on top of a Ferris wheel. She knew at that moment she’d found her calling of making people laugh with her words. She also writes mysteries as USA Today bestselling author Isabella Alan. In addition to being an author, Amanda is a librarian near Cleveland.

Mindy McGinnis

Mindy McGinnis is a YA author who has worked in a high school library for thirteen years. Her debut, Not a Drop to Drink, a post-apocalyptic survival story set in a world with very little freshwater, has been optioned for film by Stephenie Meyer's Fickle Fish Films. The companion novel, In a Handful of Dust, was released in 2014. Her Gothic historical thriller, A Madness So Discreet, is available now from Katherine Tegen Books.

John Scalzi writes the future from his office in rural Ohio, where he can see Amish buggies roll by. His first science fiction novel, Old Man's War, was published in 2005 and was nominated for the Hugo Award (which he later won for Redshirts). His novels have placed on the New York Times and USA Today best-seller lists and have been translated into two dozen languages. His blog, Whatever, is one of the oldest in the world (published since 1998) and has a daily audience of tens of thousands.

John Scalzi

Del Sroufe

Del's cooking career began when he was just eight years old, creating dishes from whatever he could find in his father's kitchen. In 1997 Del opened his own vegan bakery, and in 2001 started a vegan Personal Chef Service. In 2006 Del joined Wellness Forum Foods as Executive Chef, delivering great tasting, plant-based meals to clients throughout the continental United States. He has published three vegan cookbooks and continues to teach cooking and health classes.

Leah Stewart is the author of five novels, most recently The New Neighbor. Her sixth novel, What You Don't Know About Charlie Outlaw, is forthcoming from Putnam. A recipient of an NEA Literature Fellowship and a Sachs Fund Prize, she is a professor at the University of Cincinnati, and lives in Cincinnati with her husband and two children.

Leah Stewart

Jacqueline Woodson

Jacqueline Woodson is the winner of the Margaret A. Edwards Award for lifetime achievement in writing for young adults, the recipient of three Newbery Honors for After Tupac and D Foster, Feathers, and Show Way, and a National Book Award winner for Brown Girl Dreaming. Other awards include the Coretta Scott King Award and Los Angeles Times Book Prize for Miracle's Boys. She lives with her family in Brooklyn, New York. (Photo © Marty Umans)
